A high-angle, close-up photograph of a vast field of red bottlebrush flowers. The flowers are in various stages of bloom, showing vibrant red and pink hues. They are interspersed with green, needle-like foliage. The overall scene is a dense, textured carpet of color.

Gerusalemme

A wide-angle photograph of the Temple Mount in Jerusalem. The central focus is the massive, ancient stone wall of the Temple Mount, topped with a crenellated parapet. A prominent feature is the tall, cylindrical minaret of the Dome of the Rock, which rises from the wall. The wall is decorated with a long line of Israeli flags (blue and white) flying from poles. In the foreground, a concrete wall is heavily laden with vibrant pink flowers, likely geraniums, which spill over the edge. To the right, a paved road with a crosswalk and a traffic light is visible. The sky is clear and blue. The word "Gerusalemme" is written in a white, italicized font in the bottom right corner.
